

Dear Mon:

You have no idea how much joy you brought us by introducing us to some truly fascinating aspects of the life and work of the incomparable Miguel Hernández.

It was a real pleasure to listen to you: with such passion and vigour you recited the tender poems you had so skilfully chosen for this very special day!

Even today, the emotion you stirred in all of us still lingers. We saw how some members were deeply moved as they listened to you recite the poetry with such love.

You're lovely, Mon. We could have spent the whole afternoon listening to Miguel Hernández through your voice.

Once again, we'll cherish a very special and fond memory of your contribution to International Book Day.

Thank you once again for the material you left us so that we can continue to explore the poet's world in greater depth.

We look forward to the opportunity and privilege of having you back amongst us soon; please accept a very warm hug from all of us.

The Language and Culture Group.